Supporting Children through Trauma, Loss and Bereavement Course

About the Course:

This training course will address the issue of how children and young people cope with trauma, distress and bereavement. We aim to provide you with more understanding in this area and offer practical strategies to equip you in helping children in your care.

The Course Will Help You To:

- Understand the impact of trauma, loss and bereavement in children and young people.
- Gain skills in relating and communicating effectively with children and young people who have experienced loss and trauma.
- Appreciate the relationship between trauma, loss and the risk of mental illness in children and young people.
- Develop coping strategies and relevant skills when addressing the needs of children/young people who suffer trauma/loss and bereavement.

Course Tutor: Aqualma Murray, Independent Trainer and Consultant in Child Protection and Children's Mental Health Needs

Aqualma's training style is dynamic, inclusive and valuing of what participants bring and share. Aqualma has worked in social work for over 25 years with a range of services in most care settings including child protection, brain injury and working with physical disabilities. Aqualma has worked as the national lead manager for a charity promoting the rights and wellbeing of children who are looked after by local government and within young offender's institutions, secure children's homes and secure training centres.
